this book offers eleven duets for second and third year alto and tenor saxophone students with some experience in sight reading in the common keys the pieces were composed in extremely varied styles from jazz to calypso and from blues to french waltz musette apart from learning different styles of music the pieces have one common goal to convey the joy of making music in a small ensemble the duets can be played with either two alto or two tenor saxes or with an alto playing the upper voice and a tenor for the lower voice the transposed parts for the tenor sax 2 are printed in a pull out segment along with the keyboard guitar chord progressions in two keys appropriate for the e flat alto and b flat tenor parts this format provides both notation and the chord accompaniment for almost any combination of the two saxes the exception being tenor sax 1 with alto sax 2 the companion cd offers play along tracks for both types of saxes as the two saxophones are recorded in split track format one channel can be muted using the balance knob of your stereo enabling you to play along with either voice on the recording due to their melodic and diversified character these duets are well suited for recitals and often become student favorites in recital the duets can be performed with a live pianist or guitarist using the chord progressions provided or with the piano accompaniment on the cd for e flat alto lead only the duets can also be performed effectively by two unaccompanied saxophones through a literary lens neoliberalism and cultural transition in new zealand literature 1984 2008 market fictions examines the ways in which the reprise of market based economics has impacted the forms of social exchange and cultural life in a settler colonial context jennifer lawn proposes that postcolonial literary studies needs to take more account of the way in which the new configuration of dominance increasingly gathered under the umbrella term of neoliberalism works in concert with rather than against assertions of cultural identity on the part of historically subordinated groups the pre eminence of new right economics over the past three decades has raised a conundrum for writers on the left while neoliberalism has tended to undermine collective social action it has also fostered expressions of identity in the form of cultural capital which minority communities can exploit for economic gain neoliberalism and cultural transition in new zealand literature 1984 2008 advocates for reading practices that balance the appeals of culture against the structuring forces of social class and the commodification of identity while not losing sight of the specific aesthetic qualities of literary fiction jennifer lawn demonstrates the value of this approach in a wide ranging account of new zealand literature movements towards decolonization in a bicultural society are read within the context of a marginal post industrial economy that was in many ways a test case for radical free market reforms through a study of politically engaged writing across a range of genres by both maori and non maori authors the new zealand experience shows in high relief the twinned dynamics of a decline in the ideal of social egalitarianism and the corresponding rise of the idea of culture as a transformative force in economic and civic life tending ultimately to blur the distinction between these spheres altogether this work includes well recognized authors such as alan duff patricia grace witi ihimaera eleanor catton and maurice gee but also introduces a number of non canonical or emergent writers whose work is discussed in detail for the first time in this volume the result is a distinctive literary history of a turbulent period of social and economic change
